

Ironing Out the Details: Supplementation in Active Infection Current Topics in Pharmacy Activity Announcement

There is a gap in literature to guide the supplementation of iron in active infection. A theory exists that administration of iron during active infection may provide nutrients to bacteria and worsen the infection. Pharmacists are part of this risk versus benefit discussion in patients with infection who also require iron supplementation.

This activity was originally recorded on 1/28/2026.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this educational activity, the participant should be able to:

- Describe the role of iron in active infection.
- Identify remaining research gaps about supplementation of iron in active infection.
